

West Lakes Points Of Interest

Possible graves

There is also a site at West Lakes where two stone mounds can be found. This site is possibly two small graves. I took the Archaeologists to these stone mounds and they included them in their report. However, the stone mounds were not disturbed out of respect for the possibility of them being graves. I prefer not to include them on the trail map out of the same respect.

Wolf dens

Abandoned wolf dens can be found on the north side of the most southerly of the West Lakes. This is a beautiful little lake. One the north side is a sandy area with a bank that is about 3 feet high. There is a very visible large wolf den in this bank. Another den entrance can be found in a bank northwest of the large one and a third den entrance can be found in the low shrubbery west of the first one.

©Marie Nylund
July, 2011